WELCOME TO HATO PĀORA COLLEGE

For nearly eight decades, Hato Pāora College has stood as one of Aotearoa New Zealand's most distinctive boarding schools. Established to educate and nurture young Māori men, our kura brings together academic excellence, Māori identity, Catholic faith and a strong boarding community in a unique environment where every taura is known, valued and supported.

At Hato Pāora, education extends well beyond the classroom. Every day provides opportunities to grow in knowledge, strengthen character, deepen faith and build lifelong friendships.

Our boarding environment encourages independence, responsibility and service, while our commitment to tikanga Māori and our Catholic Special Character ensures that every aspect of college life is grounded in respect, compassion and purpose.

We envision to work in partnership with whānau to prepare young men who will lead with humility, courage and integrity wherever life takes them. Whether your tama has aspirations that lead him to university, apprenticeships, military service, business or leadership within his iwi and community, Hato Pāora will provide the foundation from which he can flourish.

Whāia te Tika is more than our motto—it is our commitment to always pursue what is right.

Hato Pāora College is more than a school—it is a place where young Māori men are shaped in faith, culture, learning and leadership. Established in 1947 through the vision of Father James Riordan, and led by the first Rector, Father Isaac Gupwell, Hato Pāora was founded on a simple yet powerful belief: that Māori boys deserved an education that strengthened both the mind and the spirit, preparing them to return home as leaders for their whānau, hapū, iwi and communities.

That vision has been carried forward by remarkable leaders including Bishop Max Mariu, whose life reflected humble service, unwavering faith and compassionate leadership, and Koro Morvin Simon (Te Anatipa), whose passion for te reo Māori, tikanga and kapa haka inspired generations of young men to stand proudly in their identity.

Equally important are the many influential kaiako, mentors and Old Boys whose dedication has shaped the character of this kura. Educators such as Ken Mihaere, Henare Ngāia, and many others gave far more than lessons—they gave their time, wisdom, discipline, encouragement and aroha. Their belief in young people helped build the culture of Hato Pāora that continues today. We honour not only those whose names are well known, but every kaiako, boarding staff member, coach, mentor, priest, kaumātua and volunteer who has invested in generations of Hato Pāora taurira.

As Aotearoa New Zealand's only Catholic Māori boys' boarding college, our unique Special Character is founded upon Te Hāhi Tātorika and Te Ao Māori. Here, faith and culture walk together. They guide how we live, how we learn, how we serve and how we lead.

At Hato Pāora, education reaches far beyond the classroom. Our boys are challenged to grow academically, culturally, spiritually and physically. Whether in the chapel, the classroom, the boarding house, on the sports field, on the kapa haka stage or within their community, every experience is an opportunity to develop character, resilience and leadership.

As both an Old Boy and now Tumuaki, I know firsthand the lifelong impact Hato Pāora has on the lives of its taurira. This kura shaped the person I am today, just as it has shaped generations of leaders in education, business, the Church, the military, health, public service, sport, the arts and iwi leadership. While their careers have differed, they are united by the values they learned here: humility, service, faith, discipline and pride in who they are.

Our mission is to ensure every young man leaves Hato Pāora academically capable, culturally grounded, spiritually enriched and prepared to make a meaningful contribution to his whānau, iwi, community and the wider world. When a boy joins Hato Pāora, he joins more than a school. He becomes part of a brotherhood that spans generations—a legacy built by those who came before him and entrusted to those who will follow.

We invite you and your whānau to become part of that story. Nau mai, haere mai ki Hato Pāora College.

I te taha o tōku māmā, Ko Ngā Rauru te iwi

As an old boy of a Māori boys boarding school, I myself know the challenges that our boys face on a daily basis. At times it can be hard being so far away from friends and whānau in a new environment. However, I always reflect back on my time at boarding school fondly and appreciate the opportunities and lessons that I received and the lifelong friendships that I made. I can say hand on heart that my time at boarding school made me the person I am today.

On leaving school, I spent four years as a fencer on some of the big sheep and beef stations across the central North Island. I don't miss those frosty or wet days lugging strainers and posts up and across all types of terrain. As with boarding school though, it did instill in me some lifelong skills and attributes that have helped me further myself in life.

I then spent three years at Waikato University where I gained a BSocSci majoring in History and then completed a one year teaching diploma.

I have taught at four different schools over the past 27 years with Hato Pāora and Cullinane College being my longest tenures of ten years or more. I was also fortunate enough to teach for three years at the national college of the Cook Islands.

I am now into my tenth year at Hato Pāora College and have thoroughly enjoyed my time here. I have personally witnessed the growth, achievements and its unwavering commitment to the holistic success of young Māori men. I am inspired by the school's mission of growing good boys into great young men and the school's vision of fostering academic excellence alongside a strong sense of identity and whanaungatanga is also something that strongly appeals to me.

Whāia te tika, whāia te pono, whāia te rangimarie.

Dual Special Character

TE TUAKIRI MOTUHAKE

Whakapono

Faith is woven throughout every aspect of college life. Daily prayer, Religious Education, liturgy and service reflect our Catholic and Marist traditions, helping taura develop a strong moral compass and a lifelong relationship with God.

Tikanga Māori

Our identity as a Māori boarding college is expressed through te reo Māori, tikanga, whakapapa, kapa haka, marae life and the everyday practice of manaakitanga and whanaungatanga. Māori knowledge is recognised, valued and lived.

Worship

A Catholic culture of prayer, liturgy, and faith-based celebration is promoted in the school. Community prayer is part of daily life at the school. The school marks significant feasts and seasons of the liturgical year.

Service

Catholic schools aim to contribute a Catholic dimension to the development of values and wellbeing of the wider community. Hato Pāora College endeavours to provide opportunities for taura to contribute to the local community, and to be involved in national and international projects where appropriate. These service and outreach opportunities demonstrate for taura the connection between spirituality and social justice, and raise awareness of others' needs.

Whānau

Boarding creates a genuine whānau environment where taura, staff and families work together to support the growth and wellbeing of every young man.

Whāia te Tika

Our guiding philosophy encourages every taura to choose what is right—in learning, relationships, leadership and service. It shapes our expectations and our culture.

Stewardship & Leadership

The school accepts responsibility for delivering education with a Catholic special character; all planning and policy documents have Catholic special character components.

Leadership effectively shapes the faith-based vision, direction, values, and outcomes of the school programme. The Tumuaki is qualified by education and experience for the Catholic special character responsibilities of the position, and shows a commitment to Catholic special character. The Tumuaki and the director of religious studies (DRS) also work collaboratively to lead the development of Catholic special character. Senior taura have opportunities to lead the school in school assemblies, liturgies, and masses, and to be involved in forums and community events.

With a career spanning over three decades in both primary and secondary education, I hold a Bachelor of Education and a Diploma of Teaching. Having attended a boarding school myself, I possess a deep personal understanding of the unique environment and the integral role faith plays in such a setting. My professional journey includes four years as an associate principal prior to twelve years in Brisbane, where I served as Head of Teaching and Learning at a Lutheran school.

As the current Head of Religious Education, I initiated the development of a comprehensive, school-wide programme. This curriculum seamlessly integrates the core values of our kura with its rich history and a profound connection to Te Ao Māori. My philosophy is centered on empowering taira to be confident in their faith and Māori identity, fostering a holistic educational experience.

Hato Pāora College is a proud Roman Catholic School dedicated to living the Marist values in the spirit of Mary. As Director of Religious Studies, I am committed to strengthening our Catholic character through continuous professional development, spiritual encounters, and active engagement with the wider community. Our values serve as the pinnacle of the kura, guiding our taira to live as Christians through faith and dedicated service.

Faith is nourished daily through chapel services, weekly Religious Education classes, and Sunday Mass. We immerse our taira in prayer and the Word of God through regular scripture readings. Furthermore, our curriculum incorporates Catholic Social Teachings, enabling taira to recognize and address social injustices in contemporary society.

Leadership development is a cornerstone of our mission. Through programmes facilitated by the Society of Mary—such as MYL, Neighbours, the Hoben Project, and the Awa Run—we provide numerous opportunities for growth. Our taira also represent the kura in prestigious events like the O'Shea Shield and participate in the annual Hui Aranga, fostering a sense of unity with other Catholic schools and iwi.

"I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." —
[Philippians 4:13]

SPORTS

At Hato Pāora College each tauira is encouraged to take part in activities with the utmost determination and skill.

The college upholds a “code of fair play” which all sports teams are made aware of at the start of each season. We encourage parents and whānau to support and enjoy the activities your tama takes part in. We ask that you follow this code of fair play and act as gracious hosts to visiting teams.

The following is a list of our college-sanctioned sports:

Summer: Softball, Futsal, Touch, Rugby 7's, Athletics, Volleyball, Rugby League and Swimming

Winter: Rugby and Basketball

Tauira should play at least one sport in summer and one in winter. If unable to play, the tauira can still participate in a team by assisting the coach, managing a team, looking after the gear and uniforms, refereeing, and other roles of support. Non-participation is incompatible with our philosophy of working together and supporting Hato Pāora College.

CODE OF CONDUCT

At Hato Pāora College, we are committed to providing a safe, respectful, and inclusive environment where every tauira can learn, grow, and thrive. When whānau entrust their tama to our care, they can be confident that his wellbeing, learning, and personal development are at the heart of everything we do.

Creating a positive college culture is a shared responsibility between tauira, whānau, and staff. Throughout the year, we work together to uphold high standards of behaviour, mutual respect, and personal accountability. This partnership enables our staff to provide an appropriate duty of care while ensuring every tauira feels valued, supported, and safe.

As a member of the Hato Pāora College community, each tauira is expected to treat others with kindness and respect, care for college facilities and the environment, and positively contribute to the life of the kura. Tauira are expected to uphold our college motto, Whāia te Tika – Always do what is right – by demonstrating integrity, responsibility, and respect in all aspects of college life.

The College Code of Conduct outlines these expectations and provides clear guidance for maintaining a safe and positive learning environment. It also outlines the processes that may be followed if these expectations are not met.

Every tauira and their whānau receive a copy of the Code of Conduct during the enrolment process. At the beginning of our school year, tauira participate in an expectations hui where the Code of Conduct is discussed to ensure they understand their responsibilities and the behavioural standards expected as members of the Hato Pāora College whānau. Tauira are then required to sign the Code of Conduct as an acknowledgement of their commitment to these expectations.

At Hato Pāora College, we are committed to educating the whole person. Our programmes are designed to nurture each tauira spiritually, intellectually, physically, emotionally, socially, and creatively, empowering them to become confident, compassionate, and resilient young men who are prepared to make meaningful contributions to their whānau, their communities, and the wider world.

Māori identity

Tikanga

Whanaungatanga

Hato Pāora College is grounded in Māori identity and values. The boarding environment is a lived cultural space where tikanga Māori is practised through daily routines, relationships, and expectations.

Boarding staff are expected to uphold and respect tikanga Māori, including:

- manaakitanga (care and hospitality)
- whanaungatanga (relationships and connection)
- respect for whakapapa, whānau, hapū, and iwi

The boarding environment operates as a collective. Boys are encouraged to support one another, take responsibility for shared spaces, and understand their role within the group.

Staff are not expected to be experts in tikanga Māori, but they are expected to:

- show respect
- act with cultural humility
- seek guidance when unsure
- support the values of the school consistently

In practice, this means staff:

- use respectful language and tone at all times
- support tikanga-based routines (e.g. karakia, shared responsibilities)
- do not undermine cultural practices through dismissive or casual behaviour
- seek advice rather than guessing when unsure

Supporting academic success

Boarding provides the structure and routine that allows boys to engage positively with learning. While boarding staff are not responsible for teaching curriculum, they play an important role in reinforcing positive learning habits by:

- supporting regular attendance and punctuality
- maintaining structured study times
- encouraging effort and persistence
- communicating concerns through appropriate channels

Academic success is understood broadly. Effort, engagement, improvement, and resilience are all valued alongside achievement.

In practice, this means staff:

- supervise study times actively
- encourage boys to stay focused during learning periods
- redirect distractions calmly and consistently
- refer academic concerns to teaching staff rather than ignoring them
